PLAN TO FUND BRITISH DEBT

Negotiations To Be Opened in Short Time.

LORD CHALMERS IS COMING TO AMERICA

Will Represent England in Adjustment of War Obligation. Mellon Makes Statement.

Washington, April 14.—Negotiations for the funding of the British debt to the United States will begin immediately upon the arrival of Lord Chambers in this country, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon announced, today. Lord C. Almers will sail from England, Saturday.

Secretary Mellon said the arrangements for the negotiations will be made by the state department and that the British ambassador may participate.

Although this country will let Great Britain initiate the proposal for funding, Secretary Mellon said, today, that under the law the maturity of the debt can not be extended beyond 1947 and that the interest borne must be equal to that of Liberty bonds, unless special legislation provides otherwise.

The secretary indicated that some hope is held out that Great Britain may offer proposals which will bring the maturity of the debt prior to 1947.

Secretary Mellon said that the question of extending the maturity of Liberty bonds or of funding these bonds had not yet been considered. He indicated, however, that the question might be taken up by congress if it became necessary to consider an extension on the maturity of the British debt.

SENATOR BURKE ASKS GOVERNOR FOR ACTION

Wants Emergency Clause Taken from Dunn Bill.

Columbus, April 14.—Governor Davis has been asked by State Senator J. F. Burke, Elyria, Republican, to see that the emergency clause is removed from the Dunn bill, providing for reorganization of state departments. Such action on the part of the governor, Senator Burke said, would relieve the state supreme court from passing upon the question of validity of the emergency clause.

"It will come with more grace from the legislature to eliminate the emergency than for the court to be placed in a position of protecting the people from the acts of their representatives," declared Senator Burke. He stated that a meeting is to be held in Cleveland, in a few days, when it is planned to complete arrangements for instituting litigation with a view to determining whether the emergency clause attached to the Dunn bill is constitutional.

AMAZING STORY GIVEN PUBLIC

Woman's Devotion Carries Her to Perjury Point.

MISS NEELY SAYS M'CANNON COACHES HER

Accuser Tells Witness How To Testify in His Second Trial for Murder in Cleveland.

Cleveland, April 14.—An amazing story of a woman's devotion even to the point of perjury for the man she wished to see turn into the paths of right, is told by Mary B. Neely, star witness for the state in the first trial of William M. McGannon, chief justice of the Cleveland municipal court, on a charge of having shot Harold C. Kagy, and whose refusal to testify to material matters in the second trial furnished one of the sensations of this most extraordinary case.

Her story is told in a sworn affidavit now in the hands of Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton, and resulted in the indictment of Judge McGannon and Miss Neely upon a charge of perjury and of Edward Allen and Charles Burke, upon a charge of having intimidated a witness.

According to the affidavits made public today, Miss Neely told the truth at the first trial of Judge McGannon, when she testified that she followed him in his car to the corner of Ninth and Hamilton, the night of May 7 and that he was the "third man" present when Kagy received his death wound.

Meets Accused.

Why she recanted is told vividly in her affidavit. She met the judge by appointment, the affidavit recites, at a hotel room, the meeting being arranged by Allen and Burke, the former being the reporter for the Cleveland News in charge of the McGannon trial, late at night during the progress of the second trial. Here she had a conference of several hours in which, the affidavit continues, the judge coached her in her constitutional rights.

"Just say 'Judge McGannon did not kill Harold Kagy. Then refuse to answer material questions,'" the woman asserts the judge told her: A feeling of more than ordinary friendship for the former Cleveland judge is manifest in the tale she tells. She wants to see him return to his wife and was willing to go to great lengths to save him.

The parting after the midnight conference, which had so great an effect on the second trial, is thus described:

"Before the judge left and while we were standing close together and the judge put his arm around me and drew me to him and kissed me, then stepped back and a few minutes later kissed me again. At the time he was kissing me, his eyes filled with tears and he showed great emotion, saying: 'Before long I will be a free man.' * * * He kissed me again and left."

Reporter Tells Story.

Burke, a former News reporter, also turned state's evidence and a copy of his affidavit was also made public. He asserts, under oath, that Judge McCannon employed him to help work up his case at the second trial, promising to pay him $3,000 at the end of the trial; that he enlisted the aid of Allen and that together the two newspaper men arranged for the McGannon-Neely interview, which, according to the affidavits, resulted in the refusal to testify.

Burke is said to have received only $1,000 of the sum promised him and it is reported that suspicion was first directed towards him following McGannon's acquittal, through the fact that he had arranged for the purchase of an automobile.

The perjury investigation was ordered by Prosecutor Stanton at the request of the Cleveland Bar association, following McGannon's acquittal. William L. David was appointed a special prosecutor to aid in the work. Several alibi witnesses in the trials have already been indicted as a result of the probe.

Miss Neely, according to her own sworn story, has received various sums from Judge McGannon since the night of the conference, running from $10, give her at the time, to $25, the amount received.

Yesterday she was awarded temporary alimony in the sum of $75 and $15 a week until the case is heard.

Denial that the estate of Anna G. Salmon has any interest in the property in question is contained in the answer of Dr. Fillmore Young and T. R. Smith, executors of the will of Anna G. Salmon, filed in the common pleas court this morning in the suit of Charles E. Merkel against the First Presbyterian church and others.

The case is one for partition and registration of title to property on Mt. Vernon avenue. In an answer and cross-petition filed by William N. Harder, as administrator de bonis non of the estate of George E. Salmon, the claim was set up that the plaintiff has no interest in the property and that the Anna G. Salmon estate owns an undivided one-half interest in the real estate.

The answer of the executors of the will of Anna G. Salmon filed through Justice, Young & Mouser, sets up that April 9, 1919, Mrs. Salmon transferred her title in the property to Arias D. Mitchell, states that the estate has no interest in the premises and asks that the answer and cross-petition of William N. Harder be dismissed.

Mrs. William Flaherty Sues.

Eymon, charged the defendant neglected to provide for the plaintiff and their child and finally when ordered by the court to support the child he absconded and his whereabouts have been unknown by the plaintiff for one and one-half years. She asks for divorce and custody of the child.

To Secure the Costs.

Gross neglect of duty is also charged against the defendant, the plaintiff alleging she abandoned him and the child. Divorce, custody of the child and that the defendant be restrained from molesting the plaintiff in the care of the child are asked.

Motion Overruled.

The motion of the plaintiff to require the defendant to make its answer more definite and certain was overruled in the common pleas court today in the suit of the Kansas City Flour Mills company against the Basford Baking company. The plaintiff was given leave to plead by April 22. The suit is for $4,577.70 growing out of the alleged breach of contract in the purchase of 620 barrels of flour.

RAIL MANAGERS AT WHITE HOUSE

Cuyler and Thom Called First by President.

A DISCUSSION OF RAILROAD SITUATION

Dry Leader Is Also a Visitor at the White House—Does Not Mention Appointments.

Washington, April 14.—T. Dewitt Cuyler, chairman, and Alfred H. Thom, general counsel of the Association of Railway Executives, conferred with President Harding, who is continuing his study of the railroad situation.

Cuyler and Thom are the first of the road managers to be called in by the president, who already has had discussion with leaders of the railroad unions. Others of the managers are expected to confer with the executive later.

While no recommendations were presented to the president, it is understood that in the discussion of working conditions, wages and the conclusion of a national agreement, it was represented by Mr. Cuyler that wage reductions would have to be taken into consideration in the reorganization of the carriers' revenues for the purpose of putting them on a working basis.

P. A. Baker, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, conferred with the president, but he denied that the commissionership was discussed. He said the league was not interested in personalities, but in a just enforcement of the prohibiton law, and that it probably would be satisfied with whoever was selected.

Having emptied his gun, Hickman reloaded the weapon and opened fire on the neighbor, Howard Sapp, demanding that his wife be driven from the house. Sapp escaped injury, although three shots were fired pointblank at him.

Hickman then rushed from the house and to his own home. Two shots were heard. When Sapp and Mrs. Hickman reached the scene they found him dead, one bullet having penetrated the neck and the other was fired into the mouth.

TRAFFIC IN GIRLS CHARGED BY WOMAN

Detroit Woman's Allegations Will Be Probed.

Detroit, April 14.—A traffic in girls imported from war-torn countries of the near east is being carried on in Detroit by a ring of aliens, according to information given to Inspector John Short of the United States immigration service by Mrs. Violet Kalajian. More than 200 girls, between 14 and 20 years old, were en route from Armenia, Palestine and Turkey, to be sold to the highest bidders, Mrs. Kalajian declared.

Immigration authorities have begun an investigation. The Girls' Friendly society also has begun an inquiry. Officials of the organization said that they frequently had heard reports of such traffic, but "could not believe it." Daughters and sisters of aliens already in Detroit were being sold, Inspector Short was told.

SECRETARY WALLACE GIVES HIS VIEWS

Appropriations for Agriculture Benefit the Consumers.

Washington, April 14. — Farmers should build up an organization capable of presenting facts to congress on matters affecting agriculture, Secretary Wallace declared before the conference here of the American Farm Federation bureau. Mr. Wallace "deplored" the complaint sometimes heard that appropriations for agriculture are in the nature of subsidizing a class, since they are for the benefit of the farmers. Such appropriations are actually more for the benefit of the consumers in the "long look ahead" than for the farmers, he said.

The conference also was addressed by W. S. Culberson, a member of the tariff commission, and by Dr. Kenyon L. Butterfield, president of the Massachusetts agricultural college.

Last Night's Fights.

At New York—Augie Ratner won a decision over Ted Kid Lewis in fifteen rounds. Eddie James won a decision over Charley Hayes in ten rounds.

INDICTMENTS ARE RETURNED TODAY

William H. McGannon and Miss Neely Held for Perjury.

Cleveland, April 14.—Indictments charging perjury were returned by the grand jury, today, against William H. McGannon, former chief justice of the municipal court and Miss May B. Neely, state witness, who furnished the most damning testimony at his first trial, which resulted in a disagreement, but who refused to testify to material matters at his second trial, on the ground that a truthful answer "would tend to disgrace and incriminate her."

Edward J. Allen and Charles E. A. Burke, newspaper reporters, were also indicted on a charge of intimidating a witness.

SEEKING MONEY FOR THE NAVY

Appropriation Bill Is Introduced in House.

MEASURE FAILS IN THE LAST CONGRESS

Senate Foreign-Relations Committee Called To Meet by Senator Lodge, Chairman.

Washington, April 14.—The navy appropriation bill, which passed the house last February, but failed to get through the senate before the adjournment of the last congress, was reintroduced in the house today by Representative Butler, chairman of the house naval-affairs committee.

To Meet Tomorrow.

Washington April 14.—The senate foreign-relations committee was called to meet, tomorrow, by Senator Lodge, Republican, Massachusetts, chairman, this afternoon. It is believed the committee will take up the peace resolution introduced by Senator Knox.

Senator Lodge and his Republican colleagues on the committee plan to report the resolution favorably as soon as possible, so as to pave the way for final action on its immediately following action on the Colombian treaty, Wednesday next.

General Powers.

Washington, April 14.—The tariff commission is given general powers to change tariff duties where such shall be shown to be discriminatory to the United States, under a bill introduced in the house, today, by Representative Ten Eyck.

Further Nominations.

Washington, April 14.—The following nominations were sent by President Harding to the senate today:

To be collector of internal revenue, Eleventh district, Ohio, Newton M. Miller.

To be representative of the United States in the international conference of communications, Henry P. Fletcher, of Pennsylvania, under secretary of state.

To be interstate commerce commissioner, John Jacob Esch, of Wisconsin.

YEAGER AND GOYER ROAD BIDS REJECTED

Too High, Other Bids Will Be Received April 30.

Bids for the construction of a twelve-foot macadam road in Pleasant township, known as the Yeager and Goyer road, have been rejected by the county commissioners. The board decided to receive other bids on the work Saturday, April 30.

The rejected bids for the work were opened last Saturday at noon. One was submitted by S. M. Wooley, Marion, for $27,267.18, the amount of the engineer's estimate, and the other by Ray Ruffner, Marion, for $27,667.76 which is $399.40 less than the estimate. The portion of the road to be improved is one and one-sixteenth miles long.

Market Unsettled.

New York, April 14.—The stock market closed unsettled, today; government bonds unchanged; railway, and other bonds irregular.

INSTITUTIONS ARE MENACED

By Concentration of Wealth, Says Union Chief.

FIGURES ON GREAT FORTUNES ARE GIVEN

People's Reconstruction League Holding a Conference in the National Capital.

Washington, April 14.—"The concentration of wealth in this country has reached a stage which is a menace to our institutions," declared William H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists, in an address before the opening session of the conference of the People's Reconstruction league here, today.

Johnston called upon the conference to adopt the program of the People's league and to work for "taxation of privilege instead of poverty."

"Twenty-two thousand, six hundred and ninety-six millionaries and possessors of fortunes estimated to be worth approximately $130,000,000,000, while our total national wealth is estimated at $500,000,000,000," Johnston declared. "America's thirty-three richest people own nearly two per cent. of the national wealth. These, with incomes of $3,000 or less subject to the income tax constituted 68.11 per cent. of the total number making returns on incomes, last year.

"The predatory financial interests and selfish business and monopoly interests want to saddle not only the cost of the war, but the current costs of government, upon working people, farmers, workers in cities, mines and transportation by a retail sales tax and other consumption taxes from which they hope to realize about $2,000,000,000."

The program of the league, as outlined, by George P. Hampton, director, is as follows:

"Prompt restoration of the railroads to unified government operation; legislation to control the meat packing industry; taxation of privilege instead of poverty; making our banking and credit system serve the people; control of natural resources; opposition to universal compulsory military training"

"The present drive on the part of the big employes to lower wages below the figures necessary to maintain the American standard of living, must be watched to protect the welfare of the nation," James P. Noonan, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical workers, declared.

CRUELTY CASE DISMISSED BY JUSTICE G. F. LARIE

After Higher Court Reverses Bolander Jury Finding.

On motion of the defense, Justice G. Farr Larie has dismissed the case of the state of Ohio against J. B. Bolander, charged with cruelty in the case of the aged Miss Josie Detrick, whose property Bolander had charge of.

In the trial of the case a jury found Bolander guilty and assessed a fine of $100. The case was appealed to the common pleas court and reversed on the ground that the evidence did not sustain the decision of the jury.

Three illegal trainriders, arraigned before the mayor, this morning, entered pleas of guilty. Two were put to work on the streets and one was released with a warning.

A LAND OF SHEPHERDS AND MEN ABOUT TOWN

Hungary Encloses Largest Plain in Europe.

WOMEN ARE FORCED TO SIMPLE FASHIONS

Less Than Fourth of Hungarian People Live in Cities. Hence Migration to America.

Washington, April 14.—The spectacular failure of Charles to re-establish himself and the house of Hapsburg on the Hungarian throne brings into sharp relief two divergent groups in present-day Hungary, according to Maynard Owen Williams, a representative of the National Geographic society, who recently visited Hungary during a trans-European and Asiatic tour made especially to study new countries and collect picture material for the society.

The bulletin issued from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society summarizes communications from Mr. Williams as follows:

"Hungary encloses the largest plain in Europe and although there is some marshy land and barren territory within the confines of the new kingdom, which has survived the diplomatic machinery of Neuilly, Admiral Horthy has had under his regency one of the richest and most productive agricultural areas in Europe.

"A year ago, during the economic boycott which closed the Austro-Hungarian frontier, the geographical difference between industrial Austria and agricultural Hungary was especially accentuated. In Vienna, food was scarce and dear.

Forced To Simple Fashions.

"Although Budapest is only a day's run down the Danube, conditions there are reversed. White bread could be bought throughout the city at reasonable rates. Vegetables, fruits and meats are cheap. But the manufactured articles there was a great dearth. The Budapest women who have a taste and skill in dress which surpasses that of Parisiennes, were forced to wear the plainest white cotton dresses, though these detracted little from their fresh type of dark beauty.

"Since the war, Budapest has been the tail which has wagged the Hungarian dog. The peasants have been little interested in the politics of the capital and the Horthy regime has only a sullen willingness to keep food moving. Hungary has had a full share of political disturbances and revolutions in her history and although the terrible Peasant Rising of 1514 was sternly repressed, the Hungarian peasant has shown his power and liberalism on many an occasion. At a recent meeting of the National Agricultural Federation of Hungary the audience greeted the reference to monarchical succession with the cries of 'Down with the Hapsburgs!' and 'Give us a republic again!'

Reason for Migration.

"Less than one-fourth of the Hungarian people live in cities of more than 10,000 and a strong current in the flood of American immigration has been caused by the unwillingness of the poverty-stricken peasants to toil the soil and in turn be oppressed by city dwellers.

"Although the Hungarian capital is best known as Budapest, the Pesth quarter of the city is by far the most important and old Buda is only a small section across the Danube, on the right bank. The castle is also situated on the same side of the river and from the palace grounds one has a fine bird's-eye view of the handsome city, with the fine Gothic parliament building to the left and St. Stephen's church whose dome matches in height the dome of the parliament building, the most prominent feature in the close-packed city beyond the busy Danube.

"The people of Budapest love pleasure and for miles along the river there are bathing places where young and old mass on the sands or paddle about in graceful canoes. Across from Pesth rise rounded hills dotted with small villages and summer villas from which one has lovely views of the teeming city, the wide plain and the winding river.

"Reactionary as much of the sentiment of Budapest is, it has an unusual number of monuments to Hungary's revolutionary and liberal leaders and many of the streets have been named after those whose fame came through fighting oppression.

Shepherds and Modish Men.

Roaming the broad plains of Hungary one could often see picturesque shepherds, carrying long staves and clad in shaggy sheep-skin cloaks. Until the coming of the World war, the restaurants and pleasure places of the gay capital were crowded with handsome officers, clad in soft boots, tight trousers, frogged coats and flowing capes, trimmed with fine fur.

"These are the two types which are now struggling for domination of what Hungarian soul has been left them by the war. The militaristic bureaucracy centered in Budapest is highly organized and strongly reactionary. Various schemes were made, one involving the reinstatement of Charles to the head of the kingdom, while another looked toward a marriage alliance with the Rumanian ruling family. But the peasants have had enough of monarchical affairs and desire a more liberal government.

"About two-thirds of the people of Hungary derive their living from agriculture, aside from breweries, distilleries and sugar mills, all of which largely depend upon agricultural products. There is little industry in Hungary. Most of the fluid capital is in the hands of the Jews and anti-Semitism has been shown frequently since the regency began. The present kingdom of Hungary is only about one-half as large as the former state, although definite boundaries have not yet been determined and there is most active propaganda in favor of a return of the former lands in which the national and racial elements are much mixed.

"The Hungarian bitterly resent the division of their former territory and the most common sights in Budapest in 1920 were flaming posters picturing the separation of certain lands from the Magyar domination and bearing the words, 'Nem, nem, soha!' 'No, no never!'

"There are no hard and fast racial or linguistic boundaries in the region of Hungary and this not only confuses world politics but makes it hard for a traveler to tell when he crosses a political boundary, since many Hungarian subjects look the same and wear the same costumes as do people of the same racial stock who call themselves Czechoslovaks, Rumanians, or Jugo-Slavs."

MRS. GEORGE S. SHECKLER DIES AT EIGHTY-ONE

Her Death Is Due to Hardening of the Arteries.

LaRue, O., April 14.—[Special.]—Mrs. Susan Sheckler, widow of George S. Sheckler, died this morning at 7:10 o'clock at her home here. Death was caused by hardening of the arteries. She had been an invalid for some time but had been seriously ill since last evening at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Sheckler was born April 8, 1840, and last Friday celebrated her eighty-first birthday anniversary. She was born in Homer, Licking county, and had passed most of her life in Hardin and Marion counties. She had lived here for the last two years. Mrs. Sheckler was a direct descendent of Oliver Cromwell. She was a member of the Methodist church for the past thirty-seven years and had lived an exemplary Christian life.

Surviving are a daughter, Miss Loretta Sheckler, residing at home and two adopted children in the West. They are Miss Amanda Smith, of Washington, and Samuel Smith of Colorado.

H. E. Smith, who pleaded guilty in the mayor's court to a charge of taking some fireworks from an Erie car, was fined $10 and costs by the mayor Wednesday. He settled and was released. Raymond Pickett who pleaded guilty to the same charge, was turned over to the juvenile court on account of being only sixteen years of age. He was assessed half the value of the fire-crackers, lectured and released.

Administratrix Named.

Ruth Mears today was appointed administratrix of the estate of William L. Mears.

NOTHING WRONG EXCEPT "RUN DOWN"
Heart All Right—Lungs All Right, but Blood Weak.
NO ENERGY OR ENTHUSIASM
That's When You Need Pepto-Mangan—the Red Blood Builder.
When you feel weak and almost sick, see a doctor and find out what is wrong.
It may be a serious illness. But in many cases the doctor finds nothing wrong except a general run-down condition due to the need of stronger, richer blood.
For over thirty years physicians have recommended Gude's Pepto-Mangan to restore weakened blood to its normal healthy state.
Pepto-Mangan imparts to the blood the elements it needs to build up vigorous men and women. Children whose blood is impoverished become listless and pale and fail to romp. Pepto-Mangan creates a supply of nourishing red blood that makes the cheeks glow, the eyes sparkle and brings back the energy for play or studies.
Pepto-Mangan is obtainable in liquid or tablet form, whichever proves most convenient. Both forms possess identical medicinal qualities.
There is but one genuine Pepto-Mangan and that is "Gude's." Ask your druggist for "Gude's" and look for the name "Gudes" on the package. If it is not there, it is not "Gude's."—Advertisement.

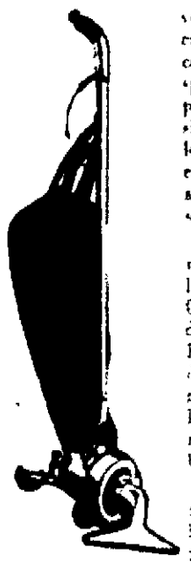
Cleans by Air Alone Royal Electric Cleaner



The Royal Motor is designed to develop high speed and power with lowest current consumption. Under working conditions the motor revolves at the speed of 9,500 revolutions per minute, producing through the scientifically designed fan, an air current having a velocity of 120 miles per hour. It is thus easy to realize why the Royal, moving air at such a tremendous speed, cleans so thoroughly and quickly.

High motor speed is necessary to develop high air velocity. High air velocity is necessary to efficient cleaning. Only in the Royal are these two features developed to the utmost. The powerful Royal suction whisks every particle of dust and dirt out of your carpets, no matter how deeply it may be ground in, leaving the nap fresh and erect, and restoring the colorings to their original brightness.

The Royal raises no dust or germs to contaminate the air, and leaves none to be raised after the cleaning operation is completed.

With every Royal Cleaner we give a binding guarantee which absolutely protects the Royal owner against defects in material and workmanship. Thus we prove our faith in Royal Quality.

When you purchase a Royal you do not only have the satisfaction of knowing that you have the best cleaner that money can buy, but that you are absolutely protected in every way.

PHOTO INSPIRATION TO THE PRESIDENT

Several Marion Men Appear in It—Interview.

"An Inspiration for President Harding" is the caption of an editorial which appears in the April issue of "Telegraph and Telephone Age."

The editorial, which contains an interview with the president that has not been published in this section, follows:

"President Harding has on his desk in the executive offices at Washington, a group photograph of nine people taken on the front porch of his Marion, Ohio, residence last autumn. The president says that the picture has been a remarkable and an inspiration to him many times—a reminder of the unlimited possibilities of American life and an inspiration to all effort that those possibilities may be preserved and broadened.

"Let me point out some of them," he says: 'Here is a man who started life as a water boy on a railroad construction gang, became a telegrapher and is now a railroad executive captain of industry—head of a great industry which he conceived, built and controls.

"'Next to him is one who had a like beginning, a poor boy who had little education and no chance but what he made for himself out of this country's opportunities. He is one of the most important railroad executives in Ohio today.

"'Here is one of the men who made Marion. He was a farm boy in this county, didn't know what it would mean to spend a dollar freely. Now he is a dominating figure in one of the largest manufacturing industries in the state—an industry whose products go literally all over the world. Down in the bottom row is a young man, who came up by the same route. He had nothing and imagined himself well started toward success when he became a country telegraph operator and station agent, while yet a mere boy. He has risen step by step to be, today, general manager of one of the country's greatest railroads.

"'So on through the list. No man in that group of nine started with apparently, an even start for success. They all know the hard ways, the real privations. Their story tells us what America means and why we must make it continue to mean opportunity and inspiration and the reward of merit. Every work to that end is to be commended and encouraged.'

Here's an enamel that is white—and stays white. Flows on the surface easily and levels up to a smooth finish that resembles liquid porcelain.

Linduro Enamel doesn't pull on the brush, yet it clings to the sharp edges and corners that may have bothered you in former enameling work.

It's great fun to enamel if you use Linduro. It wears and wears. May be wiped off as clean as a china plate, and just as easily.

Safe Electrical Work

A great deal of unsafe, unsatisfactory electrical work is being done in Marion. We do safe work.

We were the first to advocate inspection. The following letter which we drafted and submitted to council April 4th, 1919, explains our stand:

Marion, Ohio, April 4th, 1919.

To the councilmen of the city of Marion, of Marion County, of the State of Ohio:

The electrical contractors of Marion, Ohio, who have signed this proposal, feel as though it is necessary and important that the city of Marion should have a man appointed by the council of Marion to inspect all electrical wiring, as we feel that it is very necessary that all electrical wiring be done in accordance with the state code, we also recommend that this man who is appointed for this work shall have his office with the fire chief of Marion Ohio, and also recommend that he work under the above named fire chief. We feel that Marion is very much in need of an office of this kind. We, the undersigned electrical contractors, are willing to abide by whatever you deem necessary to insert in this ordinance.

If we do your work you can feel that it is absolutely safe. We guarantee it.

DOUG. TORRANCE'S GREAT RECORD AT DELAWARE

Marion Athlete, Fusser and Scholar Makes Self Power.

One of the most versatile and outstanding members of the senior class that is graduating this year is James Douglas Torrance, says this week's college sheet of Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware. Doug. has been able to successfully mix scholastic work, social life, and business, and at the same time be active on the campus as this account will reveal. His genial manner and democratic spirit have won him a host of friends who will regret to see him leave school this spring. He came to Wesleyan after a busy four years in Marion high school where it seems Doug did everything from participating in all forms of athletics to leading the senior boys' quartet. Entering college, Doug. became identified with the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity and was duly initiated. He became known as Coach Torrance to the Delaware High school boys as he was in charge of their football team for this year. Doug. was successively captain of the freshman basketball squad, elected a member of the Boosters' club and the Transcript business staff.

In the summer Doug. went out to Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, to work on the cantonment there as a first-class carpenter, but was unable to display his high grade ability. He stayed there three days, and then returned to Marion, where he spent the rest of the summer working in the ice plant and selling war maps.

In his sophomore year Doug. was inducted into the S. A. T. C. and rose from the ranks to the position of sergeant of Company C. He made his letter in both football and basketball during this year, and became one of the best known athletes of the school. In the spring of this year he was made a member of the 'varsity track squad, and won the mile in the dual meet with Miami. He was also kept busy as president of the sophomore class, circulation manager of the Transcript, and assistant manager of baseball. In the spring he was elected to Owl and Skull, and Phi Delta Epsilon, honorary journalistic fraternity.

The summer following he spent as playground instructor in Marion.

In his junior year Doug was captain of the basketball team and was on the 'varsity football squad. In addition to his athletic activities he was a member of the Pan-Hellenic council and the Y. M. C. A. council. He was on the junior-senior banquet committee, the vice president of the "W" clan, and in the spring was initiated to Jesters and Toastmasters, the latter society of which he is president.

Last summer Doug made a good deal of practical experience by demonstrating and selling Hoover suction sweepers in Springfield and Dayton.

This year has been the culmination of four busy years. Doug was president of the "W" clan for the first semester, he was on the basketball team that has given the conference champions such a close run for the title. He is also a member of the Pan-Hellenic council and of the executive committee of the Boosters' club.

But mere activities do not reveal what Doug Torrance has done for the school, and it is only by looking closer into things on the inside that we can realize the place that Doug has filled in the student body. After graduation he expects to go into business, but the nature or the place is as yet undecided. However, as Doug hails from Marion and is a friend of President Harding, we may hear of him being lured into some political appointment such as governor of the Philippines of postmaster of Marion.

Daily Proverb—"A judicious silence is always better than truth spoken without charity."

Panama seems inclined to do a little scrap-of-paper business of her own.

And to think that if it hadn't been for the World war we might never have heard of the island of Yap!

St. Louis is selling an eleven-ounce loaf of bread for a nickel, but St. Louis is a mighty long bit away to chase for a cheap loaf of bread.

Amost daily one hears or sees demands for more laws, just as though there aren't already enough to ignore.

"Many of the profiteers," says a financial report, "are among those facing bankruptcy." Please observe the tears we do not shed.

Now that tax return day is a thing of the past, we may naturally expect bank deposits to look up a bit.

It's hard to understand why some of the powers are so enamored of the league. What satisfaction can they possibly get out of looking at it?

There's never any accounting for tastes. Possibly some people honestly believe that they like dandelion wine.

It seems to us that his enemies in Hungary, to all intents and purposes, beat former Emperor Charles to his statement that the next time he went to Hungary he would stay there.

It's hardly probable that the late frosts have done any serious damage to the carrots. 'Twas ever thus.

Out in this section of the country the wonder is growing why it never struck the people of Plymouth that it might lead to a great saving of time and effort to keep their famous rock on a truck.

Of course, should Charles of Austria suddenly break into the movies we would have an adequate explanation of his most recent stunt.

Anyway, it will be impossible to hold prohibition responsible for the labor unrest over in Great Britain. As a matter of fact, it's just possible that prohibition might help to ameliorate conditions over there.

The department of labor figures that the fall in prices since last June is equivalent to a raise of thirty-seven per cent. in one's pay. Gee! At last we begin to understand how we have been accumulating so much coin of late.

If there's anything in the New York Sun's claim that the best way to avoid sleeping sickness is to keep moving, we will just naturally have to hand it to Uncle Henry Ford for being a public benefactor.

NOT A BAD SORT.

It must be said that the Prince of Wales is not a mollycoddle. He was born into his position and that is a great handicap, but, notwithstanding that, he is something of a regular fellow. He has just won a steeplechase race which has been described as exceedingly difficult. The fact that he won is not so much a matter of surprise as that he rode in it. It might be a matter of courtesy not to beat a scion of the royal house in a race, but the danger in such a sport remains and the prince did not dodge that. He surmounted successfully twenty-two obstructions at any one of which his horse might have fallen with the result to him of a serious injury, if not death. The sports of royalty usually have been rather safe and such as would be uninteresting to most people, but the prince seems to be possessed of a daring that might have been unsuspected in one guarded as closely as princes usually are.

It is not probable that England would ever permit a king to reassume an authority once held by the ruler, but it would not be a condition adverse to good government to have a monarch as capable of interpreting the wishes of the people as the minister he names. A prince who hesitates not at sport that may be hazardous to his bones gives evidence of a vitality that is needed in those who head governments.

A CHANCE TO SCRUB IT

WORK AND LONG LIFE.

"The pace that kills is the crawl," Dr. A. L. Goldwater, of New York City, who made a survey among American leaders of industry, announces as a result of his investigation.

The inquiry disclosed that men who work hardest, with consideration for the laws of health, not only live the longest, but they get greater enjoyment out of their period of labor.

The man who relaxes in middle life is found to be most susceptible to the ailments of life. The conclusion, gathered from replies of several hundred business men, is that "constant activity is productive of longer life, better health and greater happiness than early retirement to passive indolence."

It is always gratifying to see a man or a woman who has passed the allotted years of life take an active interest in current events and in the affairs of the community. Such a person may be afflicted with physical infirmity, but he seems to have the knack of living in spite of efforts of Father Time to make him succumb. One of the biggest mistakes any person can make seems to be to quit work at fifty. Some of the finest accomplishments of men and women have been given to the world after they had passed the age which so many regard as the limit of useful activity; the age at which leisure should be permitted to dominate the life.

John Burroughs was a fine example of a man who retined his interest in the active affairs of life until the last hour of existence. Other men, like Thomas A. Edison, appreciate the benefits of work after they have passed the period when most men think about retiring and abandoning all pursuits that savor of labor. The man whose ambition is to "die in harness" nearly always has the advantage of years of service over the one who relaxes at fifty.

AT HOME.

Wherever the dasies dance with joy,
Or the sunflowers greet their god,
Or the morning-glory, like a boy,
Climbs up with a drowsy nod,
O'er the portico, to the lattice-dome
To the concert of the bee—
Wherever that is, then count me home,
It is sacred ground to me.

In the Golden West, or the Sunny South,
Or the East, or the North afar,
Where the blushing bud pucks up its mouth
For a kiss from the morning star,
Be it hyacinth or daffodil,
Or a flower of low degree,
My heart's a-joy with a human thrill—
And that's home, sweet home to me.

When the day is young, or the day is old,
When the wind from the garden blows
A perfume rare, and the sunlight bold
Finds place in the heart of a rose;
Then I'll not care for the fleeting hours,
Whatever my fate day be;
For the silent music of the flowers
Is the breath of home to me.

ENVOY.

In the shine of sun, or the screen of showers
Wherever the way may be
If it leads to a place that is rich in flowers
Then it's home, sweet home to me.

LIFE'S VAUDEVILLE.

(By James Hall Naylor)

INDUSTRIAL UNREST.

Today we hear a deal about industrial unrest. We gravely speak of the envy labor manifests toward capital; we view with disapproval the suspicion capital shows toward labor.

But is this a new state of affairs?

We are prone to think so.

The truth is, however, that capital and labor have been more or less at variance for years—for centuries—ever since capital and labor had existence.

We fondly babble of the good old days—as if all industrial, commercial, social and governmental troubles were once unknown.

But the contrary is the fact.

Human nature is human—as it was a thousand years ago.

Let's look back upon the conditions in our own country; let's look back almost a hundred years—to 1838.

At that time the great Daniel Webster said some things about the existing state of industrial matters.

I shall proceed to quote from Mr. Webster's utterances of that distant day—and offer comments of my own.

"There are persons who constantly clamor. They complain of oppression, speculation and pernicious influence of accumulated wealth."

They had trouble-breeders back in that primitive period, it appears.

"They cry out loudly against all banks and corporations and all means by which small capitalists become united in order to produce important and beneficial results."

Yes, they had those in Webster's day, who were trying to array the poor against the rich—the penniless against the well-to-do—the small-business people against the big-business people. They had those who condemned wealth—until they themsives got it. Doubtless they had those who held that all riches should be divided—that every hive of industry and trade and finance should be looted—that the workers should be robbed for the benefit of the drones.

"They carry on mad hostility against all established institutions. They would choke the fountain of industry and dry all streams. In a country of unbounded liberty they clamor against oppression."

Sounds familiar, doesn't it?

Sounds like present-day talk, eh?

Sounds like an oft-told tale, hey?

But Webster went on:

"In a country of perfect equality they would move heaven and earth against privilege and monopoly. In a country where property is more evenly divided than anywhere else they rend the air shouting agrarian doctrines. In a country where the wages of labor are high beyond parallel, they would teach the laborer that he is but the oppressed slave."

Makes a fellow feel right at home to read such statements, doesn't it? America in 1838 must have been much like America of 1921, after all. They had their demagogues then—as we have our agitators now. No wonder Webster asked:

"Sir, what can such men want? What do they mean? They can want nothing, sir, but to enjoy the fruits of other men's labor. They can want nothing but disturbance and disorder, the diffusion of corrupt principles and the destruction of the moral sentiments and moral habits of society."

And as it was then—it is today.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE

VII.—MARYLAND

INDIAN arrows played an important part in the founding of Maryland. Lord Baltimore had been interested in the London company which was financially responsible for the settlement of Virginia. He became so enthusiastic over the possibilities in the new colonies that he desired to found a colony himself. After exploring the country just north of the Potomac he persuaded King Charles I to grant him this territory. In honor of the queen, Henrietta Maria, this new colony was called Maryland.

The payment for this grant was specified as two Indian arrows a year, together with a fifth part of all precious metals which might be mined. As the colony produced no gold or silver the cost of Maryland amounted to only the two arrows each year, and Lord Baltimore became to all intents and purposes an independent sovereign. As a matter of fact the charter was not issued until just after the death of Lord Baltimore, but as the deed was hereditary it descended to the second Lord Baltimore, under whom the first settlement was made at St. Mary's in 1634. This hereditary monarchy continued in force until, under the sixth Lord Baltimore, the Declaration of Independence in 1776 brought it to an end.

In 1788 Maryland adopted the Constitution and took its place as the seventh state in the Union. Its area totals 12,327 square miles, and it is thickly populated, so that Maryland is entitled to eight presidential electors.

BASEBALL

Tagging the Bases.

Baseball would not be baseball without a Kelly to talk about.

It was a terrific home-run smash by George Kelly, of the Giants, that nabbed McGraw's team to trim the Phillies in eleven innings.

Adolfo Luque, the Havana pericto, treated Cincinnati fans to a Red victory over the Pirates.

Aaron Ward's long homer into the left field bleachers and Babe Ruth' quintet of hits, coupled with Carl Mays' pitching, featured the Yankee victory over the Mackmen.

Joe Sewell's wild heaves helped the St. Louis Browns to a victory over the champion Indians.

President Harding, Vice President Coolidge, General Pershing and diplomats galore saw Walter Johnson fail to finish an opening game for the first time in his career. Walter was forced to bow to the Red Sox.

Baby Carriages

Now the beautiful Spring days are approaching the great outdoors with its bright sunshine and warmth beckons to baby. How much good the little one will derive from a ride through the park, seeing the fresh green grass and birds all in new plumage. Of course, it would never do to use the old cab—it is so shabby—and when you can get a brand new cab, such beauties as those we are showing here and at such reasonable prices—well, there's no real reason for delaying now, is there? Don't let another day pass without buying a new and comfortable cab for baby—we would like to show you the ones shown here together with the many other styles we did not have room for in this advertisement.

"What a Beautiful Cab for Baby!"

And indeed this cab is all that even the most dictatorial baby could ask. Big and roomy—you know just built for COMFORT. Woven of selected reed in a pleasing design and beautifully upholstered in corduroy. Top may be easily moved to cover baby's face from the sun. Large wheels are rubber tired spring of the finest grade tempered steel. No finer cab has ever been offered—at such a low price! $51.

Something New Pullman Stroller - - $40

Combining all the comfort and beauty of a Whitney Cab with the simplicity and convenience of a stroller. Woven of fine smooth wicker and upholstered in a rich thick corduroy. Has adjustable foot rest and adjustable back. Extremely light and easy running. You should have this cab for your baby.

The Aristocrat of The Baby Cab World . . . $45

Known to the trade as a Whitney Sleeper, this represents the most luxurious baby cab made. Not only is it graceful in design, but it is upholstered in velvet corduroy, works on a smoothly operated turntable, reversible, and large, has roomy body, ample hood and glass windows that give it an air of refinement found in no other cab.. Considering these advantages, you can realize what a value this cab is at the price we quote.

A Little Runabout $10 WITH TOP

It isn't always practicable to take the big cab when you are visiting with baby. This little collapsible cab will solve the problem. Strong and rigid, yet flexible, light, and easily folded into small space. Has storm hood, luxury springs, rubber tired wheels and foot brake. Finished in black with leather cloth upholstery.

A Design Proven Good $11.25

THE CRISIS

The International Sunday-School Lesson for April 17 Is "Bible Teachings About Work."—Mark 6:1-3; John 5:17; 2 Thess. 3:6-13.

BY WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

Bolsheviks and aristocrats are both causing trouble in the world today by maintaining the attitude that work is a curse. It may fairly be said that work and workers and worklessness are central to civilization's comprehensive problem. At the present time, the lot of many idle workingmen and of many stranded employers is bitter beyond words. The new entrance of labor, as a class, into politics and into religion, accentuates and complicates the question. Work, and all that it connotes, is written today as a huge interrogation point.

So it is well to join this vast Sunday-school procession that is for a week studying the Bible's teaching about work. The Scriptures should clarify our thinking upon the whole subject. As usual, we find the word of God to be the sanest and most modern of teachings upon a contemporary problem. At once we find ourselves confronted with the divine principle of human duty. God made man in His own image; and, at the very dawn of creation, God was a worker. "My Father worketh hitherto, and I work," declared Jesus.

A passion to do His work, and to finish His task, filled the breast of the tireless Carpenter—for we postulate the thought that the world's Redeemer was a workingman. He who summoned weary humanity to Himself with the words "My yoke is easy" had made many a smooth-fitting yoke for toiling oxen. If Jesus of Nazareth has any special class sympathies they are with His fellow laborers at manual tasks. What an example of industry and efficiency and of fearless maintenance of right He would set today!

The urge of His task was ever upon the Master. A modern poem breathes His spirit:—

"Time worketh; let me work, too.
Time undoeth, let me do,
Busy as time, my work I ply
Till I rest in the rest of eternity.
'Sin worketh; let me work, too
Sin undoeth, let me do,
Busy as sin, my work I ply
Till I rest in the rest of eternity.
"Death worketh; let me work too
Death undoeth; let me do
Busy as death, my work I ply
Till I rest in the rest of eternity
"God worketh, let me work too.
God doeth, let me do
Busy for God my work I ply
Till I rest in the life of eternity."

A Stern Word.

Because it assumes that honest labor is the saving salt of society, the Bible takes a position as stern as the utterance of any modern reformer with respect to idleness. While the teaching that is freeing toilers from industrial oppression and from soul-deadening, cattle-driven overwork, is the teaching of Holy Writ, there is nevertheless no place in the revealed program of God for the idler and the parasite. By the sweat of his brow man is to sustain his body, and also to maintain the dignity of his soul. Idleness, as everybody with eyes for real life knows, begets profligacy and self-indulgence and weakening of moral fibre and distortion of all of life's real values. Both pitiable and dangerous is the person who does no work. A considerable share of the moral collapse that has of late been so flaunted in the great cities is due to the simple fact that girls and women, as well as young men, have spurned the homely tasks of housekeeping and cooking and dressmaking, and have given all their thought to self-adornment and self-indulgence. Home-making and home-maintaining young people are never a problem to society.

With the ruthlessness of truth, the Bible declares that "If any would not work, neither should he eat." We all know that the non-contributing members of society—like the Russian aristocrats for instance—have been a burden and a complication to the world in the remaking. In the bitterness of incredible need the refugee Russians of the upper classes are suffering because this divine law is now working out: because they have not worked, they now can not eat. Democracy will never be a full success until we again approximate the ancient Jewish ideal wherein every boy learned a trade, and every woman was a real worker in a home.

Our own day's thinkers and poets all extol the dignity and glory of work. It is deemed a disgrace to fail to bear a fair share of the world's load. Angela Morgan has sung stirringly a poem of labor:

"Work"

Thank God for the swing of it
For the clamoring, hammering ring of it,
Passion of labor daily hurled
On the mighty anvils of the world.
Oh what is so fierce as the flame of it
And what is so huge as the aim of it
Thundering on through dearth and doubt
Calling the plan of the Maker out,
Work, the great Work, the friend
Shaping the earth to a glorious end,
Draining the swamps and blasting the rock
Doing whatever the spirit will
Reading a continent part
To answer the dream of a Master heart
Thank God for a world where none may shirk
Thank God for the splendor of work!

Pulling Our Weight.

He pulled his weight is the epitaph of life. It is a better epitaph than many of the high-sounding phrases that adorn tombstones. Whether on farm or in home or in school or in office or in factory or shop or in mine, to have done a full share, to have played a man's part in helping the on-going of the world is real success. That is life is for work, so also work is for life. We labor in order to live, but, quite as truly, we live in order to labor. Everybody's work is the highest expression of his personality, his best contribution to the world. Whether it be making horse-shoes or by repairing automobiles by raising grain or weaving cloth by cooking food or building houses, each of us is thereby doing our share toward the success of civilization. Good workers are the very foundation of the state. The slacker at the day's task is quite as reprehensible as the slacker in war. Poor workers are not true disciples of the Carpenter who doubtless never turned out a skimped job for His Nazaret shop.

"I must work is a more Scriptural motto than many of the sentimental mottoes popular with people who think they are living the life of faith," says Dr. Van Dyke. Every work as a true expression of the life purpose, no matter what its spiritual equivalent, be it to be a follower of the greatest Christ-love. Christmas are the Father's day's work, the Master's work, the good workers. As Dr. Van Dyke expresses it in his Hours of Faith:

"Every mason in the quarry every builder on the shore,
Every chopper in the palm grove every ranchman at the door
Hewing wood and drawing water splitting stones and cleaving sod
All the duties tasks of men in the regiment of God
March together forward His triumph do the task His hands prepare Honest toil is holy service faithful work is praise and prayer."

To go to work in a spirit of joy and achievement, to go to sanity and proportion as a addition of character. It is to join the holy Moses the shepherd of Sinai and Nazareth workingmen who follow Jesus is to know the secret of sweet sleep and simple pleasure. Dr. Van Dyke already quoted sums up our Lesson:

Let me do my work from day to day
In field or forest at the desk or loom
Nothing so hard but search and try can find a way through
Let me but find it in my heart to pray
What matter where or how long I may toil and moil
"This is my work my blessing not my doom
Of all who live I am the one by whom
This work can best be done in the right way."
Then shall I see not only clear nor small
To suit my pace a long or short my powers
Then shall I rest with patience all the labouring hours
And cheerful turn when evening shadows fall
At eventide to lay me down in peace and rest,
Because I know for me my work is best."

Get Your Tractor Now

A TRACTOR operating successfully on low-priced, low-grade fuels—kerosene, distillate, etc., is a paying investment from the very outset. This has been proved by the records of many thousands of Titan 10-20 tractors specially designed and built to operate on kerosene, or any other crude oil distillate testing 39 degrees Baume or higher.

TITAN TRACTORS ARE ALL ALIKE

They are easier to handle than a farm team and easier to care for. You can do your work on time, plow deeper, prepare better seed beds, do more work with less help, and get more profit from your farm. They do belt work that cannot be done by horses and pull more in proportion to weight than horses. Horses must have rest whether the work is crowding you or not. If necessary, you can keep your Titan working continuously, without rest, until the work is done.

Here you have economy, efficiency, dependability—three prime essentials of farm power—carrying an assurance of bigger crops, better yields, and fatter profit. Order a Titan early, so that you will have it when you need reserve power.

FIVE TEMPORARY HOLES LAID OUT IN COURSE

Ready for Practice Next Week at Country Club.

Five temporary holes were laid out on the golf course at the Marion Country club Wednesday and it is expected that they will be ready for practice next week. O. H. Boyd, of Indianapolis, is making good progress on the course. Seeding of the fairways will be started this week and it is expected that the course will be ready for play about the first of July and that the permanent greens will be ready by August 1. Plumbers and decorators are now at work on the club house and within a comparatively short time the building will be ready for the furnishings. A water system for watering the greens is also being installed.

In Fairness to Yourself

If you don't know about the opportunity which exists today for the man or woman who has built up a surplus of $100 or more, you should find out about it right away—for it is an opportunity that doesn't come more than once in a lifetime.

Ordinarily if you put your money out to work for you, in the form of excellent investments, it will earn from 4% to 6% a year. Invested now, in sound securities, it will earn from 6% to 8%.

The way to grasp this opportunity is to ACT NOW while it still exists. Ask us to explain the situation to you.

Electric and Acetylene Welding

We have the only electric welder doing custom work in Marion. We weld all kinds of broken castings, and make them just as good as new.

Notice—Garage and Automobile Owners

We weld your cylinder blocks without having to have your cylinders rebored.

With our electric welder we save you time and labor—because we can weld broken frames and a good many other broken parts without taking your machine apart.

We repair and patch stationary and traction engines, fire boxes and boilers.

We have the Kelly Metal Patent Process, guaranteed to repair your scored cylinders without damaging or enlarging the bore in any way. Use the same pistons and rings again. Cylinders will not be heated or warped. Guaranteed to stay.

Our welder, Mr. A. C. Coy, has had nine years' experience welding with electric and acetyline welding.

All work guaranteed first class or money refunded.
